Workshop: Skriv ett brev till din fitta (Write a letter to your pussy)

Room 302 19.00-21.00

Held in Swedish with possibility to switch to English

What would you write if you could write a letter to your own pussy? How would that letter start?

In this workshop we will do drama exercises together in order to get in touch with our feelings towards our own sex, and you can express those feelings in a letter to it, may they be feelings of praise, apologies or longing.

PROGRAM

It's your choice if you want to keep the letter or leave it with us and become a part of a collective story with the relationship to the pussy at the heart of it.

Organised by: Teater Vølven

SATURDAY

Fighting for reproductive justice for all as a grassroots movement

Stora salen 10.00-10.50

Polish/English/Swedish

Come and listen to a story about how a grassroots movement in Poland stopped near-total abortion ban. International Women's strike is a grassroots movement which originated in Poland, with the goal of fighting for equal access to reproductive rights. We would like to present and discuss on how Polish women's fight for abortion rights impacted the positive change in Polish society. And how important it is to keep fighting for women's rights on an everyday basis.

Organised by: International Women's Strike

Fira Pride och 8 mars med barnen – skapa en inkluderande förskola/skola!

(Celebrate Pride and International women's day with the children)

Lilla salen 14.00-14.50

English if requested

Through holidays curious teachers can create an inclusive school and pre-school. Authors and educators Karin Salmson and Johanna Ivarsson talk about how both religious and political holidays give us the opportunity to start a conversation with the children, learn new things and thus create a more including school.

PROGRAM

Ekofeminism i vardagen – träning i att ingripa mot klimatskadliga maskulinitetsnormer
(Ecofeminism in everyday situations)

Room 302 13.00-14.50

Lecture in english. Practice in swedish

The male gender role can be connected to the large greenhouse emissions and the devastation of the planet, expressed in meat consumption, driving, career choices, ignorance and control over nature.

In this workshop we practice how to intervene and change these destructive norms of masculinity in everyday situations.

Paul M Pulé, doctor and guest researcher at Chalmers gives a short lecture about his research in the area men, masculinity and environment based on his newly published book Ecological Masculinities.

No prerequisites required!

Organised by: Vardagsklimatet

Feministiskt självförsvar

(Feminist self-defence)

Separatistic for everyone who identifies as a woman

Room 302 15.00-16.50

Swedish and/or english

Feminist self-defence differs from other forms of self-defence in being based in feminist ideology and in being exclusively for women.

The workshop is divided in different parts: a discussion part, a physical part and a legislative part. We focus largely on the discussion of the gender system and the experience of living as a female in today's society, and on strengthening girls as individuals and as a group. After that you will get to try out some different self-defence techniques that can be used in an exposed situation.

The instructors are certified trainers

Organised by: Feministiskt självförsvar i Skåne

Kashmir: Conflict, colonialism and feminist solidarity

Room 202 15.00-15.50

5-7 min video about the current situation in Kashmir.

This panel has two central goals. The first one is to highlight how gender and power systems is the driving force behind India's occupation of Kashmir. How can a feminist analysis be used to understand the occupation and the resistance to it? The second one is to create a dialog about how international and transnational alliances can be used to bring attention to the situation in Kashmir. How can feminist movements create solidarity centered around the Kashmir people experiences and perspective?

Dr. Emma Brännlund, Senior Lecturer in Politics and International Relations, University of the West of England (UWE Bristol)
